Offsite award winners – Futurebuild

- Mark Graham, Premier Modular – Education project of the year winner - Beaver Road Primary School is one of 8 schools delivered in partnership with ISG for Manchester City Council over a period of 18 months.
- Andy Smith, Caledonian, Head of Business Development will be discussing their award winning project at Hinkley Point C Power Station. Caledonian have recently been awarded Infrastructure Project of the Year for works at Hinkley point C working with Laing O'Rourke and EDF energy. Described as the largest hotel built since Euro Disney Andy will outline what went into making this an award winning project that was delivered during 2018 and what projects are now flowing through the factory.
- John Handscomb, Kier, Pre-Construction Procurement Lead - Kier's entry for the 'Offsite Pioneer of the Year' award captures their determination to give strategic priority to modern methods of construction, embracing offsite technology to overcome specific challenges and achieve higher levels of performance and efficiency. Throughout 2018 they consolidated their offsite strategy, as well as improving communication, offsite marketing and collaboration across the business.
- Nick Davidge, ilke Homes, Business Development Manager will be outlining the benefits of fully volumetric solutions as showcased at the Gateshead Innovation Village with Home Group. Ilke Homes designs, manufactures and installs full volumetric homes and have taken offsite activity to the furthest level believed to be possible through their volumetric technology. ilke Homes' design approach creates a portfolio of housetypes that enables both traditional and contemporary aesthetics to be achieved, delivers exemplary performance and quality through efficient and consistent production in their factory.
