

Process Accreditation

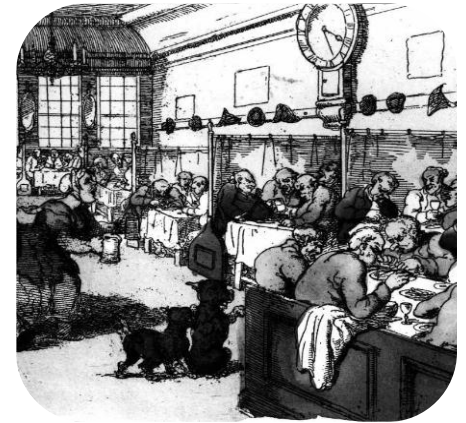

Terry Mundy

Lloyd's Register EMEA

About Lloyd's Register

- Founded in 1760
- Global independent risk management and safety assurance organisation
- Our objective is to enhance the safety of life and property
- Principal role - verification and validation of the integrity of the design and construction of ships, offshore rigs, nuclear power stations, railway systems and innovative systems of construction

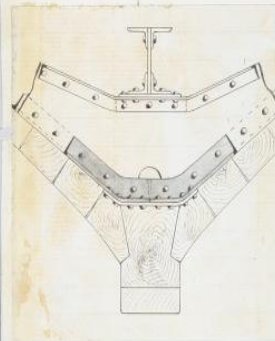

First Engineering Standard

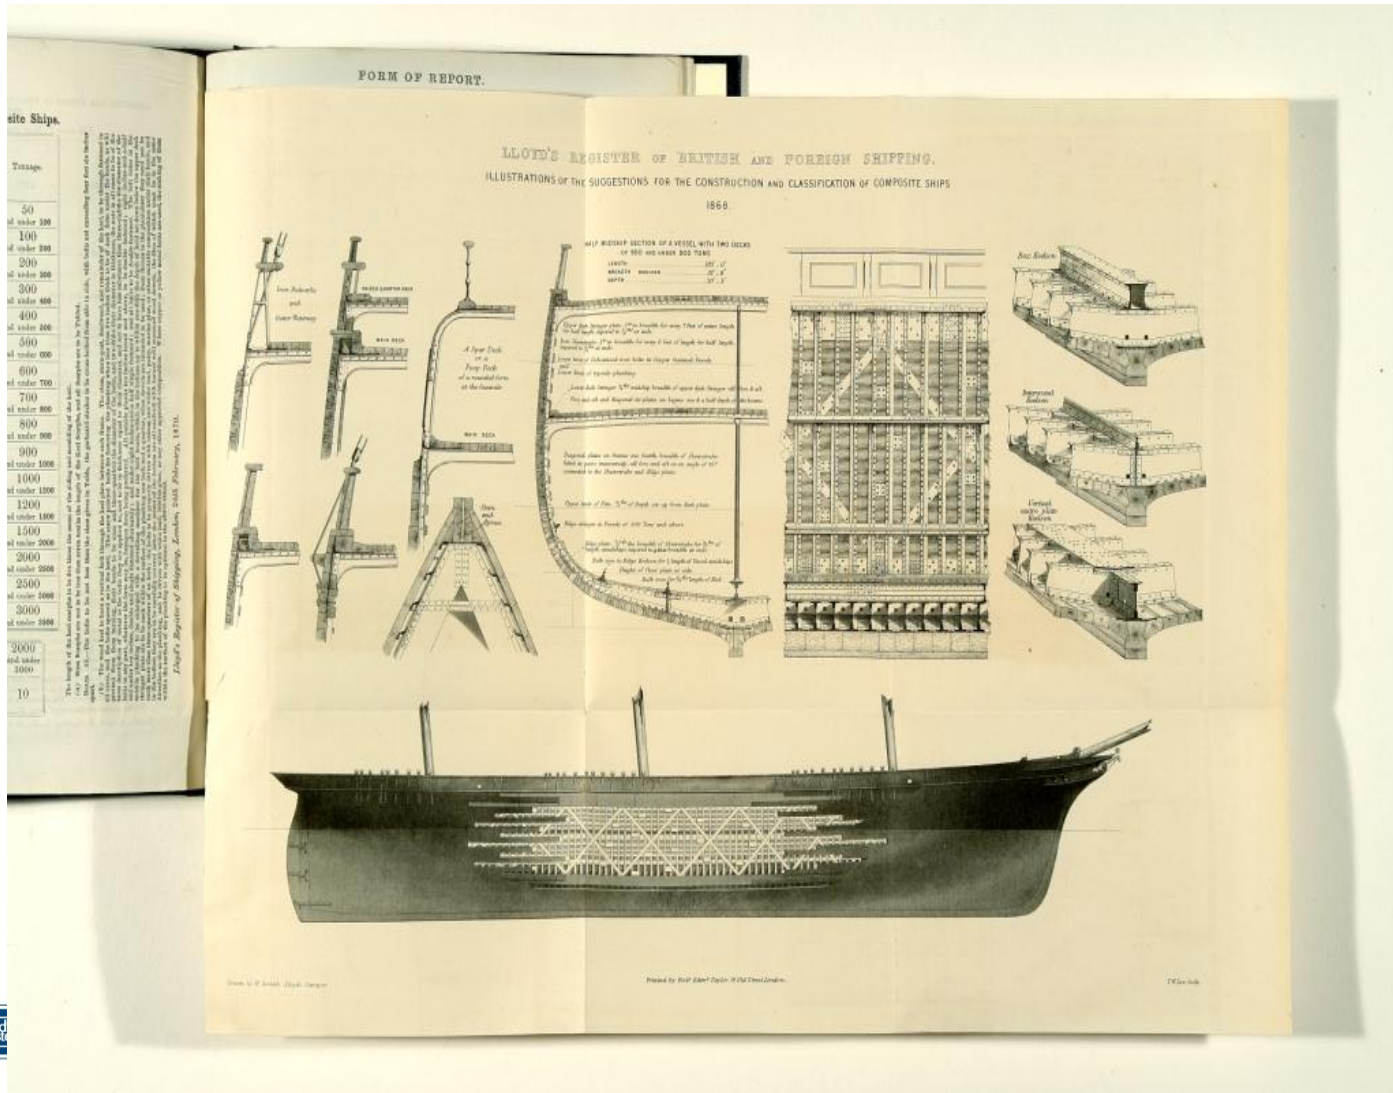

Dated 1765

Spacing

The Spacing of the Frames not to exceed 18 inches from moulding edge to moulding edge all fore and aft, and for half the length of the Keel in midships the frames to be double in the bottom extending to from a foot within the end of the floor plates at the bulge on one side, to the same height on the other side, of the same size angle iron as the frames, these double frames either to extend across the middle line or else to be butted on the keel plate, according to the plan of construction, where the floors extend in one length from side to side, before and abaft the half length of the keel in midships, a four feet length of angle iron. the size of the frames is to be rivelled to each floor and to the keel plate, back to back with the frames -

The Joining of composite materials - 1860

Calder Hall Power Station

Sizewell 'B' Nuclear Power Station

Scopes of Accreditation

Types of accreditations available

Design

Construction

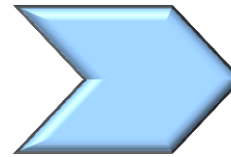

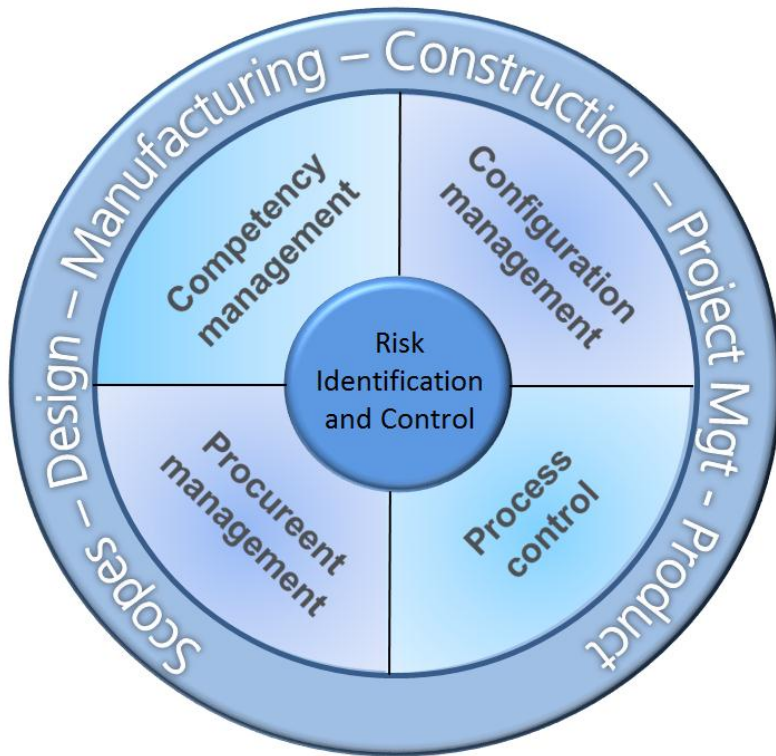

Manufacture

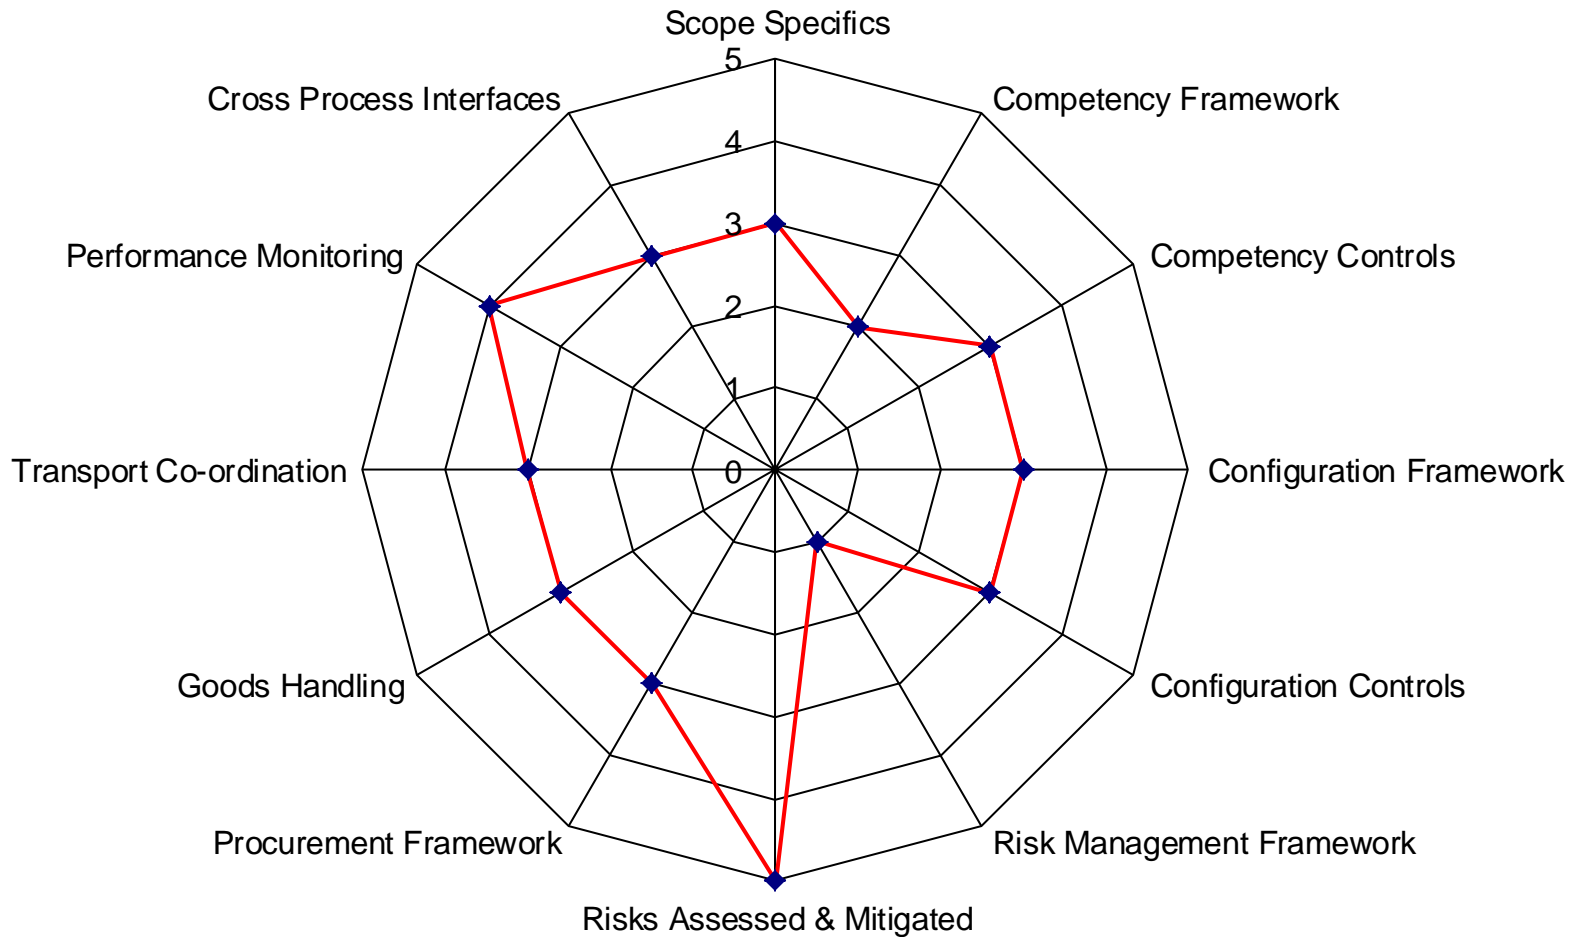

Project Mgt

The Scheme centres on ensuring risks related to offsite construction are controlled

Assessment Score

Benefits – to Accredited Provider

For more information, please contact:

Terry Mundy

Business Development Manager

Energy

Lloyd's Register EMEA

Hiramford, Middlemarch Office

Village

Siskin Drive,

Coventry, CV3 4FJ

T +44 (0)7712 787851

E terry.mundy@lr.org

w www.lloydsregister.co.uk

Services are provided by members of the Lloyd's Register Group.
For further information visit www.lr.org/entities

LIFE MATTERS